PSA receives large donation

By SUE RANSOM

Associate Writer

The Wright State University Peace Studies Association received a $5,000 donation on March 9, 1989, for its Peace Lecture Endowment Fund. Alice Faryna, associate professor of medicine at WSU, made the donation in memory of her mother, Helen K. Faryna.

"Dr. Faryna made the offer this past January. We are hoping to receive funds matching her donation from WSU faculty members and friends of this association," said Reed Smith, the association's director and WSU professor of political science.

The Peace Studies Association was established to promote and pursue peace education at Wright State, according to Smith. It consists of WSU faculty members and a few people from the nearby community who share these peace education interests.

"We are currently in the process of planning our Third Annual Peace Studies Conference, which will be held on October 4th

Ervin J. Nutter Center construction opens with celebration

Courtesy of University Communications

Wright State University celebrated the start of construction on the Ervin J. Nutter Center, a 13,000-seat multipurpose facility, with a ceremony at the 68-acre construction site on the university's main campus, March 14.

WSU President Paige E. Mulhollan said that the building is an integral part of Wright State's Strategic Plan. "The Nutter Center will play a significant role in enriching the metropolitan area both culturally and economically," Dr. Mulhollan said.

"It also will provide a special focus to the campus for our students, alumni, faculty and staff. Construction of the Nutter Center represents a capstone achievement for the Wright State University main campus."

Ervin J. Nutter, the Beavercreek industrialist whose $1.5 million donation launched the project in 1986, gave the signal to begin pouring cement for a cornerstone foundation to the building. His grandchildren, Katie and Jonathan Nutter, carried a time capsule to the cornerstone. The time capsule contained congratulatory messages from those attending the ceremony as well as major sports and entertainment presenters from around the country.

Nutter also presented two brass tickets to future Nutter Center events to Gen. Alfred Hansen, commander of the Air Force Logistics Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. The ticket presentation recognizes the base as the largest employer in the state of Ohio and its close cooperation with Wright State University.

"From the beginning of this project, it has been envisioned as a multipurpose facility that would meet the educational needs of Wright State University students, as well as the public assembly and entertainment needs of the greater Miami Valley metropolitan area," Nutter said.

"I am very proud to have played a role in the development of this building and I am certain that within 18 months we will open the doors to a first-class building comparable to the finest such facilities in the country."

Vince Corrado, president of the Shook Building Group, said the building will open in the fall of 1990. Other speakers included Fred Weckel, president of the facility architects, KZF of Cincinnati; Fred Young, chair of the WSU Board of Trustees; WSU Student Government President Rick Kaczmarek; Athletic Director Michael Cusack; WSU Alumni Affairs Director Jim Dock, and Nutter Center Director Tom Oddy.

The WSU Nutter Center will be a 260,000-square-foot, air-conditioned complex capable of seating 13,000 people for major concerns, 10,632 people for basketball games, and 2,200-7,500 people in varying configurations for "more intimate performances," Oddy said. Seating is all chairs, no bleachers. The center has been acoustically designed for sound quality.

The university expects the Nutter Center to host about 150 events each year, attracting 675,000 patrons, Oddy said. The center plans 25 to 30 family show performances, including ice shows, circuses, motor sports and sporting events. Another 30 concerts a year would feature popular rock, country, rhythm and blues, and Christian musicians. The facility also will host conferences, trade and consumer shows, as well as serve as the home for Wright State's Division I athletic programs.

The Nutter Center will have the flexibility to schedule sports practices in the C.J.

McLin Jr. auxiliary arena, allowing a major performance to take place concurrently in the main arena.

Those attending events at the WSU Nutter Center will find 13 concession stands with closed circuit TV, the John Berry Sr. Room, which will accommodate 300 patrons for banquets and conferences with a view of the main arena, and 3,300 parking spaces. Of 14 corporate boxes, 12 are already sold, Oddy said. A color animated scoreboard-message center system and computerized ticket sales, linked to the TicketMaster network, will be added features.

In addition to the main arena, the complex includes a running track, weight rooms, four basketball courts with seating for 500, aerobic rooms, a media room, catering rooms, dressing rooms, classrooms and offices. Both the WSU Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation in the College of Education and Human Services and the athletics department will have offices in the building.

For more information about the WSU Nutter Center, call Tom Oddy, Nutter Center director, 513/873-3670.

Women's tennis opens season in South Carolina

By CINDY HORNER

Associate Writer

Wright State's women's tennis team opened their season over spring break, traveling to Hilton Head, South Carolina to play six matches over a four-day period. The Lady Raiders went 1-4 with one match being rained out.

In the first match on Sunday, March 19, the Lady Raiders battled the Regals of St. John's. St. John's defeated Wright State 9-0. Wright State's only senior, Amy Stern, lost 6-1 and 6-4; junior Lori Bolton went down 6-1 and 6-1; juniors Beth Pavlasky and Tina Tiller were both defeated 6-3 and 6-1; sophomore Jennie Booth was downed by her opponent 6-1 and 6-0; and freshman Ginger Rapp was also defeated in two sets, 6-1 and 6-1. The Lady Raiders were defeated in their doubles matches, although partners Stern and Booth put up a good battle before losing to their opponents in three sets.

In the second match, the Raiders were defeated by Lafayette, 7-2. Booth was successful in singles, downing her opponent in two sets, 6-1 and 6-3. Booth was also successful in doubles, with her partner Stern, came away with the win.

On Tuesday, the Lady Raiders won their first match, going 1-2 on the day. In the first match, they were defeated by Georgia State, 8-1. Bolton was the only winner for the Raiders. She downed her opponent, 6-3 and 6-0. The Raiders weren't successful in doubles against Georgia State.

The Lady Raiders' first win came against Armstrong State, defeating them 6-3.

Stern defeated her opponent in two sets, 6-1 and 7-6. Pavlasky defeated her opponent in three sets, 1-6, 6-4, and 6-2. Rapp also defeated her opponent in two sets, 6-1 and 6-0. The Lady Raiders were also successful in doubles, as partners Stern and Booth downed their opponent in two sets, 6-1 and 6-1. Partners Bolton and Pavlasky also defeated their opponents in two sets, 6-0 and 6-2.

On the final day of competition in Hilton Head, the Lady Raiders were scheduled for two matches, but the weather permitted them to play only one. Their match against Howard was rained. Their final match was against Berry. The Lady Raiders were defeated 6-3. Booth won again, downing her opponent in three sets, 6-4, 2-6 and 6-3. Rapp also won, but setting her opponent down in two sets, 6-2 and 7-5. Tiller won when her opponent had to retire. In doubles, partners Stern and Booth took their opponents to three sets before being defeated, and partners Tiller and Rapp did the same.

Booth earned player of the week honors for her great play at Hilton Head. She won three matches, and, in doubles, helped take WSU head coach Steve Paul said, "We played some tough competition in Hilton Head. They were Division schools, but I felt that we improved in every match. We have most of our players back from last year, so we should have a good season this year."

The Lady Raiders will play their first home match Saturday, April 1, when they take on Transylvania at 8 a.m.

Senior wheelchair duo will be missed next season

By CINDY HORNER

Associate Writer

Two senior wheelchair basketball players will be missed next year. Seniors Dmitri Haight and Duncan Long led the team in their own ways.

Long didn't break any records, but he brought leadership to the team. He played all four years for the Raiders. Many players don't endure four-year careers.

Head coach Dan Byrnes said, "Duncan played real well during his career at Wright State. He improved every year." Byrnes added Long was the best communicator for his teammates.

Haight had a great four-year stint at Wright State. He was a major factor in every game he played for the Raiders. Haight ranks with the top players that have ever played at Wright State.

"Dmitri is the best player I have seen in my five years at Wright State," Byrnes said.

Haight is second in total points in Wright State's record books with 1,028 points.

He is Wright State's all-time leading rebounder with 887. He has played 4,164 total minutes in his career at Wright State, a record that will be tough for anyone else to break.

This season, Haight led in scoring for the Raiders in 14 games out of their 28. He led in rebounding 15 times out of the Raiders' 28 games.

He also finished his senior year with 370 points and 230 rebounds. He has been the spark plug in their line-up.

Byrnes mentioned Haight has led the team by example throughout his whole career at Wright State.

"It is tough to let these two players go. We have had so much success because of players like Dmitri and Duncan. I like to see players improve and achieve their full potential. Both players achieved this well. It would make me most happy to see these players move on and be successful in life," Byrnes said.

Wright State will miss these two senior athletes. Replacements to fill their roles will be hard to find.

Men's tennis prepares for successful year

By JILL JOHNSON

Special Writer

In with a laugh and out with a "W." That's what opponents used to do when they faced the Wright State men's tennis team.

After last season, however, WSU proved that playing them was no laughing matter. A dismal 2-20 performance in 1987 was transformed into a 16-14-1 outburst by head coach Marvin Gross and his squad.

With the addition of Mark Lawton at second singles and the return of last season's three top singles players, another step upward is expected.

"A lot of people were used to coming into Wright State and leaving with an easy victory," WSU assistant coach Wyatt Bumgardner said. "They were used to playing a weak team at Wright State. But after last season, I look for our opponents to be more prepared when they face us."

Sophomore Steve Cox once again owns the first singles spot. The former Northmont standout powered his way to a 19-6 mark against constant competitive opposition at the top spot.

"He's real devoted to working on his weaknesses," Bumgardner said. "When he's not practicing with the team, Steve gets up early and works with his own pro."

Last season's second singles player, David Hunt, will take over at third singles. Lawton will face opponents at second singles.

Mike Cox and Heath

Goolsby are the two other returnees. Mike, Steve's brother, finished 13-12 in various positions last season. When teamed up with Steve, they compiled a 14-9 record at first doubles. Goolsby registered a 12-7 mark last season at third singles.

Newcomers Dave Peterson, Pete Wallace and Brian Wolgast should split time at sixth singles.

TFL road race set to meander across campus

By KIRT KARSON

Special Writer

It's time to lace up those old Tiger Asics running shoes, put on those running shorts held captive in the back of the closet, and limber up tired muscles. Once again, Total Fitness Lifestyle will hold its TFL five-mile road race.

The race, sponsored by Diet Pepsi and the WSU Alumni Association, will be held on the lovely confines of Wright State University on Sunday, April 16, 1989. A two-mile fun run will begin at 8:30 a.m. which will be followed by the grueling five-mile dash at 9 a.m.

Last year, Dave Fultz broke the course record with a 25:16 as did Keith Cable in the wheelchair division with a 29:08. Sarah Westover still holds the women's record she set in 1987 with a 28:42.

Check-in for the race is from 7 to 8:30 a.m. in the P.E. Building. The fees are $2 (a T-shirt is $5 extra) for the two-mile run and $7 (T-shirt included if registered by Tuesday, April 11) for the five-mile run. After that date, the fee is $9 with no guarantee of a custom-made T-shirt. Race-day registration is $9.

The measured course will start and finish in front of the P.E. Building. The route will take a scenic turn down the hill towards K-lot, circle around K-lot, and climb back up the challenging hill that meanders past the president's house. From there, the route will go past the P.E. Building, through West Lot, and circle the WSU campus. The last stretch features a 200-meter race to the finish behind the Frederick White Center.

Awards will be given to the top five overall males and top three females. Also, awards will be given to age groups based upon pre-registration. The top two male and female wheelchair participants will receive honors as well as the first male and female from the TFL Program and alumni.

A special "Middle of the Pack" award will also be handed out to one male and one female.

Immediately following the race, a free training clinic will be held, featuring Henderson as speaker. Henderson is the editor and

Editor upset at discrimination against smokers

By SCOTT URICK

F&amp;E Editor

I would suppose that you have heard the controversy over the attempts to ban smoking here on campus. I found out the other day that the committee that is deciding the issue consists of several non-smokers and only one smoker. The one smoker was obviously in need of support so I wrote a letter to the committee. I then thought that some of you might like to read it and, if so inclined, you might write a letter of your own. The letter went as follows:

Lorna Dawes;

Being an editor at The Daily Guardian, I have followed the debate on smoking on campus. Although I am a smoker, that is not the primary reason that I am writing you and your committee. This situation is turning into yet another case of "tyranny of the majority." In the past decade or two smoking has shifted from being the trendy activity to a social pariah. As a result, the smoker has become a minority.

As I understand it, the present policy on smoking allows for smoking in an office as long as no one objects. If, however, there is one objection, the objection stands and the smoker is exiled. There is no consideration of the opinion of the majority or even their apathy on the subject. It is conceivable, then, that the wishes of a single person could displace eight or ten people. Given this situation, that policy seems to be grossly unfair.

If asked politely to move my smoke or refrain, I will willingly do so and have done so on several occasions. As a result, most smokers have been forced into the hallways and restrooms rather than at their desks. Now that that policy has become the norm here on campus, non-smokers are no longer happy. There is too much smoke in the hallways. Well, the non-smoking powers that be put the smoke there, not the smokers. With the formation of the Committee to Ban Smoking another assault has been made on the basic human rights of the smoker. Even the makeup of the committee is biased and unfair. The inclusion of only one smoker on a board that is going to decide whether smoking should be banned is a blatant mockery of the whole review system. Why don't you just make your ruling today and not waste the state's money.

What the issue truly is here is not smoking but an individual's rights. I agree that smoking is unhealthy, but then again so is drinking alcohol, eating too many eggs, and even sunshine if it is overdone. "Unhealthy" is a relative term. You cannot protect us from all that is bad for us. Motorcycle riders are allowed to ride without helmets even though that has been deemed dangerous. People still sunbathe even though the risk of skin cancer is obvious. I also agree that a non-smoker has a right to not breathe second hand smoke. What I don't agree with is the idea that the smoker is the second class citizen and he is the party who has to yield. The smoker and the non-smoker are equal people what each decides to do is his own business. When the non-smoker gets annoyed at second hand smoke that is unfortunate but how is that any more an annoyance than when the smoker has to set at his desk without a cigarette until he can take a break? The solution to the problem is simple. The two groups have to avoid each other when possible and find a compromise when they must coexist. The operative word is: compromise. That word does not spark thoughts of opposition elimination, which seems to be your committee's goal.

You have no right to tell me where I can or can't smoke. If the non-smokers are irritated by second hand smoke and they are the majority they say they are, then it shouldn't be too hard to find a corner with smoke-free air. I venture the prediction that the smokers have endured the previous unfair and biased policies in the name of peaceful coexistence, but if they are pushed much farther, you will only lose the ground that you have unjustly gained. Thank You for your time Scott W. Urick Features and Entertainment Editor The Daily Guardian

I signed the letter and sent it. If you smoke or if you just sympathize with the rights of smokers I urge you to write a short letter to Lorna Dawes and make your feelings known.

I don't think smokers have committed any particular sin but there is a self-righteous group of do-gooders that are trying to crucify them anyway by cramming their opinion down our throats. I don't mind going down the hall for a cigarette but I sure as hell don't want to have to stand outside to smoke in February. I will tell you now that that will never happen.

If you are interested in having your feelings on the subject heard. Send them to me hear at the newspaper and I will forward them. And I will tell you one other thing. Writing to the editor is fine but if you write to the committee, they will have to read it into the record.

Then, if we really want to make a case, we'll go to a meeting and light up. Hell! might bring enough cigarettes for everyone. And for the committee, Light up! Lucky!

Works by young New York artists to be shown at exhibit this weekend

By DENISE PHILLIPS

Special Writer

This Sunday marks the premier of what is expected to be one of the best art exhibits sponsored by the University Art Galleries. The theme, entitled Science/

Technology/Abstraction: Art at the End of the Decade, features works done by young inspiring artists mostly of New York decent. In their works, the artists investigate the various components involved in making a work of art. Contrary to just using paint, brush, and canvasses, the artists here find ways of using T.V. monitors, V.C.R.'s, and color light bulbs in their expressions of modern art. These artist are not only noted for their ability to create art, but also for their shopping skills, since most of their works are created from items generally found in stores for the homes. There are however, other art works which make reference to the forms and apparatuses of technological instruments, scientific experiments, specimens and the cellular world of nature, some of them, through the use of computers. The premier will start Sunday April 2nd. The hours will continue to be on display here at the University until May 14th.

The exhibit will be held in the Main Gallery in the Creative Arts Building, and will be open and free to all. The Art Dept. will also offer wine, hors d'oeuvres, and jazz music by "The Bridge" free to all that attend. This will be the final show this season

Wright State graduate named new chief of staff

Lieutenant Governor Paul R. Leonard has named Dorothy A. Tuzzi of Oakwood, a Dayton suburb, as his new Chief of Staff. Her effective starting date was Monday, February 27.

Tuzzi's background includes both managerial and community experience. In 1981, Tuzzi served as Campaign Coordinator for the Leonard for Mayor Committee, helping Mr. Leonard win an overwhelming election as Dayton's 60th mayor.

"Dorothy's strong suit is organization and follow-through. We have worked hard to establish the Lieutenant Governor's Office as an effective conduit between Ohioans and state government. She will help us fulfill that objective during the final two years in office," Leonard said.

Tuzzi has worked as a Public Affairs Representative for the Monsanto Research Corporation Mound Laboratory in Miamisburg. Her responsibilities included developing and administering all educational, governmental and community relations for the facility. She also served as Coordinator of Emergency Preparedness at Mound, developing and coordinating the emergency preparedness program for all facilities and operations as well as maintaining a state of readiness for the Emergency Operations Center.

Tuzzi was the first woman appointed to the Montgomery County Planning Commission and two years later she became the chairwoman. She currently is a member of the Oakwood Board of Zoning Appeals, the Leadership Dayton Alumni Association, the Montgomery County Subdivision Review Committee and the Oakwood Schools Strategic Planning Committee. In 1984, Tuzzi participated in the Dayton Area Chamber of Commerce Leadership Dayton class and later served as Chairman of the Leadership Dayton Science and Technology Committee.

Tuzzi succeeds Arthur G. Meyer, whose resignation became effective January 31. Leonard also named Business Administrator Eleanor H. Garcia, who has been serving as interim Chief of Staff, to the position of Deputy Chief of Staff. Before joining the Lieutenant Governor's Office two years ago, Mrs. Garcia was an Assistant to the Chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.
